Biography – Eden Hazard

Have you ever dreamed of stepping foot onto a luscious green, centre-stage football pitch being admired by thousands of cheering fans eating delicious, divine hot dogs? Well, Eden Hazard fulfilled that dream in 2014 when he assisted Dries Mertens winning wonder goal against Algeria on his World Cup debut.

Born on 7th January 1991, Hazard was born in Braine Le Comte and he was extremely lucky to have caring parents. At a young age, Eden played regular football for local Belgian sides Royal Stade Branois and Tubize. In 2005, Eden Hazard was ecstatic to join the fantastic French team Lille. After two hard and intense years in the Academy, he made his professional debut at the age of 16.

After lots of exceptional performances, Eden was bought by the wonderful football team – Chelsea. In his second season here, Hazard was nominated for the PFA Young Player of the League Trophy. As time passed on, Eden was feeling phenomenal when he and teammate John Terry lifted the Premier League trophy with joy.

To this day, Eden dreams of winning the World Cup with Belgium and to continue inspiring the youth of today. Reach for your goals and dreams!
